NO ONE KNOWS WHERE HE STANDS

He Is Opposed to the Income Tax, but Has Been Silent on the Tariff Question Thus Far-

Washington, April 8 .- (Special.) -- Senator Pat Walsh and Mrs. Walsh arrived today and are resident at the Metropolitan hotel. Senator Walsh will be sworn in at noon tomorrow. Senator Gordon will present him and the entire Georgia congressional delegation will be present. Senator Walsh has had hundreds of callers today. Among them could be counted a liberal percentage of those in search of fat government jobs. In response to a request for an interview. Mr. Walsh said: "I am too old a newspaper man for that. Oh, no; I am not here to be interviewed until I know what I am

In response to a query, he said: "I am for the Wilson tariff bill. I am for an income tax. I am for the free coinage of silver. and I am for the repeal of the state bank tax. If I hadn't been, I wouldn't have been sent here. Oh, yes; I stand just as does Speaker Crisp. And now we will stop the interview," said Mr. Walsh, with a good-

Senator and Mrs. Walsh made their debut before the Washington public at the National theater tonight to hear Sam Small lecture in reply to Ingersol'. Small's sutject was "What should I do to be saved?" It was a splendid effort. He pounded Ingersoll's arguments and preached one of the finest sermons the Washington public has heard in many a day.

What Will Hill Say? condition of affairs in the senate badly mixed. The outlook for the democratic party is gloomy, unless the course of some democratic senators is soon changed. No one exactly understands the course of Senator Hill, of New York. It is true he is against the income tax and does not like many other features of the bill, but whether or not be intends to defeat the bill no one seems to know. With Murphy he has that power, but whether he will exer-

senator Hill will probably define himself in his speech Monday.

The vote in the senate Friday on adjournment showed the democratic senators who are acting with the republi-cans to throw stumbling blocks in the way of the tariff. Hill is leading them, for reasons best known to himself. Murphy is simply training with

Brice is probably acting this way for personal reasons. You know the effect of a few stumbling blocks in the tariff road causes the impression that the bill may be defeated. And that, you know, has its effect upon the stock market. Irby is going with Hill just for pure

It makes him conspicuous. Call Is Mysteriously Silent.

The most surprising occurrence of Friday, however, was the silence of Mr. Call, of Florida. It looks as though Call has ade some trade with the republicans. Certainly there is a suspicious looking cloud floating about Mr. Call. You know, by the aid of the votes of the republicans h was able to have the senate reject the nomination of H. W. Long as register of the land office at Gainesville. And now he wants the republicans to aid him in turning down George W. Wilson, who has been nominated for collector of one of the Florida ports. Mr. Call's action in aiding the republicans to delay the tariff bill looks like he has some deal with them.

In view of the combinations that son democrats have made with the republicans, in view of the fact that there is an element of protection democrats in the senate, and in view of the fact that there is a speculative element in the senate that car feather its nest, so to speak, out of manipulating stocks if the bill is defeated, the outlook right now is dark and gloomy.

Peffer Is Opposed to It. The speech of Peffer, the bearded Kan sas populist, indicates that he will cast his vote against the bill. How the other populists will vote no one seems to know Thus if just two democratic senators choose to defeat the bill they can do it.

But the true democrats of the senate are determined to force the kickers to show their hands. On Monday or Tuesday Senator Harris will propose that the tariff be made the regular order of the senate, to be taken up daily immediately after morning routine business is disposed of and that the senate sit daily until 6 o'clock in order that the tariff bill may be dis posed of at the earliest practical moment. The vote on this proposition will force every senator to show his hand, and the ountry will know upon whose head to place the responsibility for the underhanded fight being made against the tariff bill. Must Vote Again on Silver. Just as soon as some action is taken or the state bank tax bill Mr. Bland will call the coinage committee of the house to-gether and report a free coinage bill. Mr. Bland will not attempt to rush the natter in the house, but says he is deternined to make every member show his hand

A Decision Which Applies to the Seiz-

Washington, April 8.—Governor Tillman's reported statements that news is not commerce and that the interstate commerce law has nothing to do with it, has directed attention to a decision rendered by a majority of the supreme court in 1877, bearing indirectly on this subject. At the time Chief Justice Waite in delivering, the opinion of the court held "That since the case of Gibbons vs. Ogden, it has never been doubted that commercial intercourse is an element of commerce which comes within the regulating power of congress."

The question at issue was the case of the Pensacola Telegraph Company of the chief justice in the course of his opinion held that it is not only the right, but the duty of congress to see to it that intercourse among the states and the transmission of intelligence are not obstructed or unnecessarily encumbered by state legislation." reported statements that news is not com-

He attended the world's fair and was captured in San Francisco last December by Pinkerton and returned to the prison walls again. When the cells were unlocked for breakfast this morning he went straight to the guard tower of George S. Funches. Funches had left the door on the inside of the wall leading up to the tower unlocked, and Summers went in, locked the door, ascended the stairs, In, locked the door, ascended the stairs, discarded his prison garb and donned the suit of citizen's clothes provided by Funches. Then he and Funches, the latter going first, lowered themselves on a rope. They were pursued by a posse with the prison hounds and tracked to the rear of the state capitol, south of the city on the Illinois Central railroad, where all signs of them were lost.

Summers some weeks ago discovered a plot on the part of some desperate crim-inals—Brooks Story, express train robber Denny, a high-class crook and safe blower and Taggart, a burglar and robber from Scranton, Jackson county—to blow up the prison walls with dynamite. Summers divulged it to the prison warden, who operat-ed through him to run down the scheme, which was successfully done, and a mur-derous piece of work was thwarted.

The governor has offered a reward of $500 for the apprehension and return of Summers and $100 for the capture and return to Jackson of Funches. Funches is described as follows: Age twenty-five: height, five feet, nine inches; com-plexion, white; dark, deep-set blue eyes; hair dark and close cut behind; spare face; light, sandy mustache; has an impediment in his speech; very broad-shouldered and small waist; wears No. 5 shoe, and had on a pair of red shoes and light, dove-colored hat; had a ring on the third finger of his

S. H. H. CLARK TO RESIGN.

The Great Railway Manager Now on His Way South.

Omaha, Neb., April 8 .- (Special.)-It is reported in railway circles that President S. H. H. Clark, the managing receiver of the Union Pacific Railway Company, will soon resign his position. Mr. Clark is now on his way south and will probably take a trip to Europe to regain his health. It has been hinted for some time that Mr. Clark has not been in harmony with the other receivers, as he has entertained the most cordial feelings towards the employes, and is said to have strenuously onnosed the issuance of the reduction of wages schedule on January 27th.

After his rest he will probably resume his old place at the head of the Missouri Pacific. It will be remembered that about one year ago he resigned his place as president of the Union Pacific to return to the Missourl Pacific by the wishes of George Gould, but he was prevailed upon by the directors to return to the Union Pacific. Since the receivership arrangement and the alleged conflict among the receivers, Mr. Clark has, it is said, been very anxious to return to St. Louis, and George Gould has been as anxious to have him re turn to the head of the Missouri Pacific If Mr. Clark returns, his successor will probably be Edward Dickinson, the general probably be Edward Dickinson, the ge manager of the system, who is an e tionally well qualified man and was pu commended by Judge Caldwell last Mr. Clark is very much loved by the ployes, who have not the same regard for Mr. Dickinson.

WILL ELECT THREE SENATORS. Louisiana's Legislature Will Be the

New Orleans, April 8.—The session of the Louisiana legislature, which meets next month, will elect three United States sena-tors. This is the first time such an event has occurred in the United States. The term of Senator White, who, resigned The term of Senator White, who, resigned to accept a position on the supreme court bench, expires in March, 1895, and to fill this vacancy Representative N. C. Blanchard was appointed senator by the governor. The legislature will, of course, elect a senator for this-term. Justice White had also been elected for a second term to be also been elected for a second term, to be-gin in 1895 and expire in 1901. This term will also have to be filled. It is not improbable that the same man will be elected to both of these vacancies, but it is by no means certain, and the legislature may take it into its head to honor two men by electing one of them to fill out Mr. White's long term and the other the short term. Finally there is the senatorship made vaant by the death of Senator Gibson, whose term would have expired in 1897, and is now filled by Mr. Caffery, both of the present senators from Louisiana being appointees by the governor and both can-didates for re-election.

A lively quadrangular fight has already begun. So far it is only certain that Mr. Blanchard will be elected to one of the senatorships, with the chances about equal between Senator Caffery, ex-Senator Jonas and Representative Boatner for the other

TILLMAN IS WROTH, SILVER IN GERMANY.

Mind on the Eastern Democrats.

Gives Mr. Cleveland and the Patronage Papers a Blistering Roast.

DENOUNCES THE GOLD CONSPIRACY

Denies That He Is a Populist, but Say Democrats Should Combine.

Columbia, S. C., April 8.-Governor Tillman today gave a surprising interview to

An extract from a letter from a populist, in which the writer said that the only thing he did not admire about the governor's political course so far was that he did not have the moral courage to come out squarely and call himself a populist, was read to Governor Tillman. Then he was asked if he had seen all the references made to him by the northern press as the populist governor.

Governor Tillman rose and walked up and down. His eye flashed fire, and in the most determined manner he said:

"Yes, they call me a populist. I will tell them that I am the truest representative of Jeffersonian democracy in the lead in American politics today. Let me tell you, I don't see anything ahead now but for the southern democrats to combine their forces with the western populists and go into the next national campaign on new party lines. "The northeastern democrats and republicans are now together. It is a combination of the moneyed interests." Despises Mugwumps. The governor then turning, suddenly and in a somewhat excited and very forcible manner said:

"I despise Cleveland and his mugwumps. He is no better than the rankest republican. He has destroyed the democratic party. The south and west will be forced now to unite and have a complete reorganization of party lines. The people who are afraid of the negro and other questions will have to cast aside their fears on those scores and come together on the one line of fighting the money combination. Cleveland has been working under the dictation of the New York bankers and bargaining with them in the matter of the issue of bonds. He promised the bankers that if they would take the bonds there would be no more legislation on the silver question by this congress. Congress passed the seigniorage act and he vetoed the bill, indicating plainly the nature of his bargain with the bankers.

A Scheme of Robbery.

"The whole thing is such a scheme of robbery that he ought to be impeached for it. It is a shame and a disgrace. The idea of this great government having to beg a lot of shylocks for assistance is so outrageous that there is not any language too strong in which to characterize it. Cleveland is owned, body and soul, by these scoundrels. He secured his nomination at Chicago through the influence of a subsidized press, and what votes he lacked there, after exhausting such means, he bought with promises of patronage, which promve been since redeemed-the goods have been delivered. His attempt to browbeat and debauch the senators and representatives was outrageous in the extreme. If those cowardly congressmen up there had any appreciation of their duty to their constituency at home they would impeach

"Consider the farce and treason to the interests of the masses in issuing bonds under a pretense of increasing the gold reserve when that same gold is paid in at one window and drawn out at another with silver certificates. And the same process can go on till the silver certificates are exhausted and the people have to pay the in-

Get Together. "Well, governor, what is your idea of what ought to be done?" was asked.

The governor thought for an instant

"Well, I'll tell you. I think that the silver men of this country ought to meet in convention at Memphis or St. Louis and organize a fight to control the next congress. Let the west and the south cast aside all questions upon which they now have any differences and get together. It is a fight between gold and silver or poverty and prosperity. One more word as to Mr. Cleveland I think that it is most damnable and outrageous, his being dictated to and bought up by those bondholders. It is debasing to his high office. He is abusing his power to dicker with such people and barter away the people's blood even upon the pretext of financial relief. Abused by Paid Hirelings.

"The newspapers which are snarling and snapping at my heels as being a populist are the paid hirelings of his bosses. I am a populist in this sense, that I am for the people's rights, but there are many planks in the populist platform which I do not endorse. If the silver congressmen will issue a call for a silver convention and carthe war into Africa, we will teach those blood-sucking gold thieves a lesson in pol-itics such as they have not had since Jackson's campaign against the banks. The farmers of the south and west will move on Washington in a solid body and demand legislation that will give them relief from the grinding poverty produced by 6-cent cotton and 30-cent wheat."

The lie was passed, whereupon Clayton hit Gaddis on the skull just above the right eye, crushing it in, and then cut him in the back in two places, the gashes being from four to six inches long. Gaddis is in a precarious condition and not expected to live. Clayton is hiding in the mountains and has not yet been arrested. Several weeks ago the revenue officers Berlin, April 8 .- (Copyrighted, 1894, by the United Press.)-The reichstag has not yet warmed to its work. Not a sitting since the recess has been well attended, and even in the debates on the Bourse tax and bimetallism, the most conspicuous speakers talked to half-empty benches. Yesteday was expected to bring with it the culmination of the struggle over the Bourse tax. Many persons gathered in the galleries in the hope of witnessing a hot contest, but their hope was vain. While the government's supporters came in solid phalanx the ranks of the opposition parties showed such large gaps as to suggest doubts of their earnestness in combating Dr. Miquel's financial reforms Chancellor von Caprivi listened attentively to the debate, but did not join in it. He left the whole onus of the defense on Friday and Saturday to Dr. Miquel and Count Posadowsky. The secretary of the imperial treasury has made many good speeches since he was lifted from obscurity into his present high office a few months ago. On Friday, however, he outdid himself and compelled even his opponents to commend his readiness and keenness.

Herr von Kardorff, the champion of silver and high tariffs, interpellated the government as to the work of the imperial currency commission. He at once guessed that they must resort to an exclusively gold currency or rehabilitate silver. The 5-mark silver piece, he said, had a metal value of only 2 marks, and the silver thalers, were worth hardly half their face value. Unless the government intended to restore the similarity between the nominal and real value of these coins, the present thaler and 5-mark pieces should be withdrawn.

Kanitz Is a Joker. Count Kanitz, another agrarian bimetallist, caused much laughter by saying it was a good stroke of business for the governent to coin lanely when the market val was so low. The difference between the face and real values could be well used to Count Posadowsky, in his reply, ignored the theoretical arguments of the opposi-tion. He repudiated the insinuation that the government proposed to mint 22,000,000 marks in silver for the profit of it. The coins to be authorized by the bill, he said, were needed by the merchants and traders of the empire, and the government's decision to satisfy this need had no bearing whatever upon the abstract rights and wrongs of the problem of the standards. In his subsequent remarks on international currency relations, Count Posadowsky disclosed a surprising grasp of the subject. When the tobacco and wine tax bills come before the full house again, Dr. Miquel, virtually unaided by the other ministers, will conduct the defense of the government's interests. The Railways Pay.

The most conspicuous bills before the Prussian landtag propose to create provincial chambers of agriculture, to reform the organization of the Protestant state church and to change the system of operating the state railways.

The proposal to alter the railroad system has already received the assent of the lower house. It necessitates the discharge of 1,700 officials for whose relief Herr Thielen. minister of public works, expects to provide in a special bill. Herr Thielen aprounced in the landtag that the receipts from the state rallways showed a surplus of 23,000,-000 marks above the estimates. The financial difficulties of the Prussian government have, therefore, vanished and the treasury is again free from all embarrassment. Count Kanitz took advantage of the debate on the state railways to rail in general against the government and in particular against its proposal to grant cheaper rates to workingmen. Such a concession, he said, would merely foster so-

Going Off on a Trip.

Emperor William has telegraphed to Kiel that the imperial yacht Hohenzollern must he ready by Whitsuntide for a long journey. He intends to make a trip to the North Cape early in May. At court, the report is that the emperor found Abbazia little to his liking. He is said to have chafed under the discomforts caused by the fickle climate and to be eager for another trip in which he may get the usual benefits of a vacation. His reception in Venice has been enthusiastic enough, however, to restore his good humor, for the cordiality of the Italian people has been quite be yond all expectation.

The Berlin newspapers say that the popularity of the triple alliance with the Italians has been demonstrated once more. Despite the burdens of the military and naval budgets, the people of Italy are supposed to cling still with undiminished loyalty to the alliance which affords them security against Aleck Promises a Visit.

Before going to the North Cape Emperor William wishes to fix the date of his meeting with the czar. Several days ago he ordered General von Werder, his ambassador in St. Petersburg, to seek to persuade the czar to come to Berlin. Werder is said to have been successful in executing this order and to have obtained the czar's promise to pass three days here and in Potsdam as the emperor's guest. The emperor has already planned a series of fetes, which, in case of a meeting here, will show to the world the great significance of the revival of the Russo-German entente.

relations with Russian enterprises. For instance, the discount society and several other firms announce the issue of Warsaw and Vienna railway bonds to the amount of 26,000,000 marks. The Koenigs and Laura works, in Silesia, have opened twelve new puddling furnaces to satisfy the increased Russian demand. The representatives of German commercial agencies, who are now swarming to Russia, agree that there is every prospect of an enormous trade. They add that if the boom be properly exploited here Germany will be able to get much of Russia's import trade away from England. Germany's Silver Coinage Bill. Germany's Silver Coinage Bill.

Berlin, April 8.—The new silver coinage bill was discussed in the reichstag yesterday Count Posadowsky, secretary of the imperial treasury, who has charge of the bill, said that it would be impossible for Germany alane to regulate the coinage of silver. That was not to be expected. But as an international regulation was still a gistant possibility Germany must act for distant possibility Germany must act for the best under the circumstances. fears expressed by Herr von Kardorff that it was the intention of Germany to adopt a pure gold standard, he said, were absolutely unfounded.

RICH BUT UNHAPPY.

The Father-in-Law Interfered and Separated the Young Couple. Berlin, April 8.-Berlin society has been entertained for the last week by the Hertsog divorce case. Rudolph Hertsog is to Berlin what A. T. Stewart was once to New York. Young Mrs. Hertsog was the daughter of a prosperous tradesman and was intelligent and pretty. She made her husband happy. Old Hertsog, however, exerted all his influence to separate the couple, and eventually the young husband disappeared with a baby boy which his wife had borne him a few months before. Aided by her friends, his wife traced his movements through Europe, and even to America. After she had followed him for some time, without overtaking him, she was requested by old Hertsog to consent to a divorce and accept from him 100,000 marks as compensation. She refused to accept the offer unless the custody of the child should be granted her. Negotiations were then suspended. Recently young Hertsog and his child were discovered living under an assumed name in San Sebastian. When old Hertsog learned that his son's whereabouts was known he increased his offer of money in case of divorce, and agreed that his daughter-in-law should have the custody of the boy up to his fifteenth year. On this basis an arrangement was made, and on Thursday a Berlin court divorced the young couple on the ground of 'incompatibility of temperament."

Strange as it may seem, there are only six Nicaraguans in Bluefields, who are keeping this entire community in a deplorable state of feverish excitement. Were it not for the suffering of the poor people, the Americans here would enjoy the nipping game played by Charles A. Lacayo. Without backing of any description from Nicaragua, and with only five henchmen, he has drawn about fifty five henchmen, he has drawn about fifty thousand sols from the business men of Bluefields. He walks through the town with a smile which seems to say: "I am exceedingly pleased with your hospitality." Owing to the entire suspension of the banana business, there has been much suffering among the poor people during the last few days. As the blockade has been broken, the people are hoping that with the arrival of a United States war-ship they will not be again subjected to further outrages and cruel hardships.

BISHOP DONAHUE CONSECRATED.

An Imposing Service Conducted by Cardinal Gibbons at Baltimore. Baltimore, Md., April 8.-The cathedral this morning was the scene of one of the most august ceremonies of the Catholic church. With solemn rights and magnifi-cent music, Rev. P. J. Donahue was consecrated bishop of Wheeling. Cardinal Gibbons conducted the services and performed the consecration in the presence of distin-guished prelates and hundreds of the laity. There were gathered in the sanctuary five archbishops, exclusive of Cardinal Gib-bons; eight bishops, a large number of the lesser clergy and several hundred seminarians. Archbishop Satolli, the papal ablegate, was not there, but he was represented by his secretary, Monsignor Baretti. In the sanctuary, Cardinal Gibbons, in full canonicals, occupied the throne at the right, while the assistant consecrators, Bishop Foley, of Detroit, and Bishop Haid, of North Carolina, were seated near by. Archbishops Ireland, of St. Paul; Williams, of Boston; Ryan, of Philadelphia; Chapelle, of Santa Fe, and Kain, of St. Louis; Bishops Phelan, of Pittsburg; Keane, of the Catholic university at Washington; Northrop, of South Carolina; McDonald, of Brooklyn; Van DeVyver, of Richmond, and Maes, of Covington, Ky., were grouped in the foreground. in Canada until a truce can be patched up with his three wives who are inclined to make it hot for him just at present. A portrait of Mayor Goodwin was matched by the picture of a leading Tammany politician whose name your correspondent forgets.

"This is hard to match," said the artist, looking at a photograph of Mr. Fulton Colville. He finally hunted up its exact fac-simile, and stated that it was a picture of Signor Bolaro, the popular tenor singer. The man from Atlanta went down into his maket again and brought out a portrait of

Governor Bullock, only to see it quickly matched by the photo of one of the direct-ors of the Bank of England. The picture of a charming society lady on Peachtree street was paralleled by the face of a western young lady whose poetry is in all the magazines.

The photograph of Mr. Hamilton Douglas caused the artist to draw out one of the Rev. Dr. Thomas Dixon, of this city "How about this?" asked the Atlanta man, showing a portrait of Don Bain.

The photographer pulled out the portrait of Fergus McTavish, who established the big Scotch colony in Canada last year. Captain John Fitten's photograph was precisely matched by one of Colonel Valentine Howard, the gallant English soldier who was butchered in the Zulu war.

The Atlanta gentleman went away firmly believing that every man has his double. No man can visit this dealer in old photographs without finding his own face exactly reproduced in some stranger's photo-

Concerning Mr. Cleveland.

President Cleveland was not on hand to meet his old friend, F. C. Benedict, when the latter arrived from Europe Friday, a passenger aboard the steamship Fuerst Bispassenger aboard the steamsnip ruces, marck. But Mr. Benedict was not forgotten entirely by the chief executive. The latter delegated Collector Kilbreth to meet his friend at quarantine, and thus was Mr. Benedict saved the annoyance of being plied with questions by the customs oficers and suffering the exasperating details of baggage inspection.

Mr. Benedict was accompanied by his daughters. He said he had had an enjoyable time in the orient, but was glad to be back once more on his native soil. What rew speculation he will take, Mr. Cleve-land into is not known. Mr. Richard Watson Gilder, of The Century Magazine, has gone to Washington to tury Magazine, has gone to Washington to submit his latest poem to the criticism of the president. If there is anything that Mr. Cleveland is passionately fond of, it is poetry of the magazine variety, ruch as his friend Gilder reels off by the yard. By the way, St. Gaudens, the artist, is mad with the president—mad as a hornet. It happened in this way: Mr. St. Gaudene was commissioned to design a medal for the Chicago world's fair awards. On one side of the medal he placed the relief of a nude male figure, which several worthy senators objected to as being indecent. Secretary Carlisle saw it and was disgusted. Mr. Breckinridge saw it blushed. Mr. Cleveland saw it and he passed the criticism that the figure looked as if it had a lame leg and the leg had been badly set. .

Simply an Outrage.

The mayors of western cities who are shipping the so-called industrial army east are altogether in the wrong. What are the eastern cities to do when the west un-loads upon them these thousands of penni-less tramps who claim that they are going to make a demonstration in Washington The whole business should be nipped in the bud. It is now said that 10,000 peaceful workingmen are to meet in Washington on the 20th to denounce the wilson bill. They are to go to Washington from Pennsylvania on twenty-five special trains. Such demonstrations should not be encouraged in Washington. The mass meetings of work-ingmen would be more effective if held at the homes of those giving expression to

The Reunion of the Confederate Veterans Is Not All Hurrah.

THERE IS A BENEVOLENT SIDE TO IT

It Is Proposed to Awaken a New Interest in the Care of Destitute Comrades and Their Families.

Birmingham, Ala., April 8.—(Special.)—A great deal has been printed about the re-union of confederate veterans, which is to be held here on April 25th and 26th, but the be held here on April 25th and 25th, but the real objects of this convention of old sol-diers are not generally understood. Some of the business to be transacted at the meeting may be briefly stated as follows: First, to arrise at the best method of securing impartial history relating to the war, and to enlist each state in the compilation and preservation of the history of her citizen soldiery.

pilation and preservation of the history of her citizen soldiery.

Secondly, to provide for the benevolent care, through state aid or otherwise, of disabled, destitute or aged veterans, and the widows and orphans of the fallen brothers-in-arms.

Thirdly, to provide for the care of the graves of the unknown dead buried at Gettysburg, Fort Warren, Chase, Johnson's island and all other points; to see that they are annually decorated, the headstones preserved and protected, and complete lists of the names of the dead heroes, with their last places, furnished to their friends and relatives through the medium of the camps, thus rescuing their names from oblivion and handing them down to history.

Fourthly, to consider the different movements, plans and means to erect a monument of Jefferson Davis, president of the confederacy, and also to aid in building monument to other great leaders, soldiers and sallors of the south.

Fifthly, To aid in securing a pension from the states lately composing the confederate states, for Mrs. Jefferson Davis.

These are among the principal matters to be considered, and it is honestly hoped that all old soldiers who can will be on hand and help to solve these problems.

Birmingham, Ala., April 8.—(Special.)—
Dr. M. R. Seay, of Berry Station, Fayette county, is a prominent candidate for the state senatorship from his district. He is a man who stands well with his neighbors and who is said to be the proper man to lead the organized democrats of his district to victory. Dr. Seay for the Senate.

Sending Yarns to Boston.

Birmingham, Ala., April 8.—(Special.)—The Huntsville Mercury publishes the following bit of cheering industrial news:

"The West Huntsville Cotton Mills have successfully carried the war into Africa; have carried coals to Newcastle, so to speak; have bumped up against the cotton spinners of New England and have knocked them galley-west and crooked in the first round. Yesterday Messrs. Coons & Pratt filled an order of 70,000 pounds of yarn to a Boston firm over all their eastern competitors. The order is not a large one, but the fact remains that our cotton mills are dangerous competitors for New England spinners to buck against."

Vincent's Health Has Improved.

Birmingham, Ala., April 8.—(Special.)—And now somes the statement that Isaac H. Vincent, the ex-treasurer of Alabama, who embezzled so many thousands of dollars of the state's funds and who served for many years in the state penitentiary, being released only a few months ago, as it was believed, to die, will edit and publish a people's party paper in Lafrayette, Ala. Some of the county papers have started the story. How true it is, is not known. Vincent's Health Has Improved.

The Wife Suspected and the Police Are Watching Her. Birmingham, Ala., April 8 .- (Special.) --George Betts, chief engineer of the Bessemer pipe works, a hale, hearty young man, died in a convulsion soon after eating his supper Friday. He sat down to the meal immediately after having ridden on a bicycle some ten or twelve miles, having taken before the ride five or six glasses of beer. At first the death was attributed to congestion, caused by taking the violent exercise with an overloaded stomach, but it was suspected that poison had caused Betts's death. It is stated that he and his wife have not lived happily together, and that she, yesterday, bought some rough on rats. An autopsy held revealed poison in the dead man's stomach. The stomach has been removed and sent to Montgomery for analysis. Mrs. Betts tearfully protests her innocence and is herself ill with what appears to be symptoms of poison. The coroner has ordered her under police surveil-

Proceedings Started Before the Su-

Impeachment proceedings have been begun in the supreme court at Montgomery against Judge John B. Tally, for alleged complicity in the killing of R. C. Ross, in this county, April 27th has been set for the county. April 27th has been set for the hearing. The best friends of Judge Tally will agree that he should have resigned, and not necessitated this action. It must have been an exceedingly bitter pill to Hon. W. L. Martin, attorney general, to have instituted these impeachment proceedings. Judge Tally was one of his warmest friends, but the attorney general's duty was plain and he did not swerve from the path of it.

Birmingham, Ala., April 8.—(Special.)—
Said an old-line democrat today: "I firmly believe the election of Reuben Kolb as governor of Alabama means his election as nited States senator in Morgan's place I believe the scheme arranged is just this: Goodwyn, the chairman of the Jeffersonian Goodwyn, the chairman of the Jeffersonian executive committee, still has two years in the state senate. I believe that if the Jeffersonian ticket prevails Goodwyn will be elected president of the senate. Then when Kolb is elected to Morgan's place, Goodwyn will become governor.

"Many of the third party people wanted to run Goodwyn for governor the last time, you will remember, and my recollection is he was anxious to enter the race. Now, is it probable that he and Captain Kolb made this trade at that time?" The old democrat's calculations are given for what they are worth.

THREE GOOD ONES. A Mad Woman, a Famous Lion Tamer

and an Heiress. New York, April 8 .- A strange trio of women were arraigned before the board of special inquiry on Ellis island a day or two Not only did their personal appearance form a curious picture, but their histories were as remarkable as any ever heard on Ellis island, where strange tales acound. They came on the Fulca from Genoa, Italy, and were bound for Boston to secure on of an estate they say is worth. They have a bundle of legal documents which they say fully establish their

The three women are Catherina Bernado, aged sixty-one years, her daughter, Anna Amelia, aged thirty-four, and Antonia Malchiedi, aged thirty-six years. The latter is heiress to $3,000,000. The other two are friends who came with her to establish her claim, and in recompense to get a part of the fortune.

older woman is the guide and man-Though she claims to be sixty-one years old, she looks and acts like a woman of forty. She is quite tall, and as active as a young girl. The daughter is of extra-ordinary size for a woman, and evidently was of remarkable beauty in former years, The women were taken before the board on account of the strange behavior of the daughter. It began when she started to make love to the inspector, who was registering the party. She was taken to Dr. Wheeler for examination, and he said she was of unsound mind.

When taken before the board, Captain De Simone, of the Italian home, was called as interpreter. The captain is a goodlooking man, and Anna Ameña sidled up to him, smiled and whispered, "Cara mia!"

The members of the board appeared shocked, and the captain kept at a safe dis-

Catharina told the board that her daughcatharina told the board that her daughter's mind had been upset over a love affair nine years ago, and that she had not been right since. She said her daughter had been in love with a lieutenant of artillery in the Italian army. They were to marry, but the family prevented it, and had him sent to a distant garrison. The parting from her affianced unsettled her reason.

Catherina herself had an eventful life. She speaks German, Spanish, French, Italian and Polish, but no English. Her maiden name was Tomasick. She was born in Blala, Austrian Galicia, and was a famous lion tamer some years go. When only nine-teen years old she was known in all the capitals of Europe, and used to give exhi-bitions in a cage of lions. After visiting all the large cities of Europe she went to South America and then back to Europe. She claims to have been the first woman to put her head in the mouth of a lion. She married an Italian while traveling in France. Her husband is still alive and remains in Italy, where they have considerable property at Placonza. He is crippled from a mangling he received in a lion's cage years ago.

Antonia, the nelress, was a neighbor of Catherina. Antonia told the board that years ago her aunt, Maria Olympia, had been adopted by a wealthy Boston family who had no children of their own. When they died they left all their property to the adopted daughter. She continued to live in Boston and never married.

When she died ten years ago there was a contest over the property, which is now said to be worth $3,000,000. No settlement was ever reached and the estate has gone on increasing in value.

Three months ago Antonia received a letter from a Boston lawyer named Giuseppe Berini, informing her that she was entitled to the estate, and requested her to come to Boston at once. He sent her $300 for her traveling expenses. Catherina said she had the Boston law-

Catherina said sne had the Boston law-yer's letter and plenty of legal papers to prove what she had said. She began to un-roll a voluminous bundle of documents, but the board had a number of other cases to the board and a number of other cases to hear and were impatient to catch the fer-ryboat to the city. They hastily voted to bar the helress and her friends as the quick-est solution of the matter. They said they would grant a rehearing if the Boston law-yer came on before the Fulda sailed back for Naples today.

Sad Day at Petersburg—Another Death from the Explosion.

Petersburg, Va., April 8.—The deadly explosion at the fireworks factory of C. N. # KEEP OFF THE STEPS.

Coxey's Crowd Liable to Be Arrested by the Capitol Police.

THE DISTRICT LAWS ARE STRICT

Major Brown Does Not Propose to Have Any Lord George Gordon Business from Coxey and His Followers.

Washington, April 8.-The unceremonious manner in which the freight carload of forty unemployed men from Cincinnati was taken in charge by the police last night is a foretaste of the reception which awaits Coxey's army.

Temorrow morning the men will brought into police court and a charge of vagrancy entered against them. The local law against vagrants is a sweeping measure. It applies to all men without visible means of support, who are destitue, likely to become charges upon the city, who have no vocation or means of gaining a livelihood, or who solicit alms. The penalty is ninety days in the workhouse at hard la-bor, but it rests within the discretion of the judge to accept their promises to leave the city at once, or to accept $200 bonds as surety that they will not beg or become public charges.

Captain Primrose, the leader of the band,
may find himself in more serious trouble
tran his followers. There is an old law on the statute books which was passed in 1830, and has never been repealed, which makes it an offense to bring into the District of Columbia any destitute people who are likely to become public charges with a penalty of from $25 to $50 fine for each offense. The police authorities are considering the advisability of bringing a charge of violating this law against the leader, in which case his fines with the alternative workhouse imprisonment would amount to a very heavy imprisonment.

Must Keep Off the Steps. The same charge may be brought against General Coxey if disaster does not over take the army of the commonweal before It completes its itinerary. Of course, the vagrancy act may be brought into application against his followers, and besides, there are two others which it is the avowed and advertised purpose of the Coxeyites to break. One is an act of congress regu-lating the use of the capitol grounds, which forbids in stringent terms any gathering, demonstration or parade, the making of any oration or use of threatening language, the display of any banner or device to at-tract attention. The other is a local law which forbids men to congregate on the steps of any public or private building. It rests within the discretion of the vice president and speaker of the house to suspend the capitol regulations for any proper purpose, and, perhaps, Coxey's agents will apply to them for permission to carry out heir programme. Major Moore, the chief of police, said to-day, in speaking of the march of Coxey: "These laws are on the statute books and we have no discretion but to enforce them if Coxey's army does arrive, unless congress should give them permission to congregate on the capitol steps."

The details of the police movement against Coxey are kept a secret. No doubt he will be met at the district limits and if the number of his army is too great for the police to cope with, the local militia will be called to their aid.

Coxey's Crowd March All Day. Brownsville, Pa., April 8 .-- Yesterday's terrible march through the mud and rain seemed to have little effect on the battal-ion of 280 men now under Coxey's lead as they started out this morning on a long march over the magnificent hills of southwestern Pennsylvania to begin their third week's march. The march started at 10:30 o'clock, after three rousing cheers for the people of Monongahala City. It was after people of Monengahala City. It was after 8 o'clock tonight when the men, very tired and hungry, arrived at Camp Chicago

FORECAST FOR THE WEEK.

Tariff Is on in the Senate and Appropriations in the House.

Washington, April 8 .- According to programme the tariff debate in the senate will open up in earnest in the senate this week, but programmes and arrangements have thus far this session proved to be very un-certain, and the opening day may disarange the whole outline of the less this happens Mr. Hill will speak tomorrow and there will be naturally much in-terest taken in the line which the New York senator will take in the tariff discus sion. Mr. Lodge, of Massachusetts, is down for a tariff speech on Tuesday. On Wednes-day Mr. Peffer, the Kansas populist, proposes to give a further installment of the speech he has already commenced in favor of his own tariff bill, and he will probably be followed by Mr. Hale. Mr. Mitchell, of Oregon, is down for Thursday, and Mr. Quay, of Pennsyvania, for Friday.

Hill Holds the Key. Mr. Hill is expected to take the floor at 2 o'clock tomorrow. The apparent opposition of Mr. Hill to the tariff bill as it at present exists and his expressed antagonism to the income tax feature have caused a very great desire on the part of his col-leagues to hear what he has to say, and especially on the part of the majority, who have the tariff measure in charge. Mr. Hill is sure to have an audience, and the mem-bers of the house will be present in numbers to listen to the man who is thought to hold the key to the tariff situation.

Mr. Quay some time ago gave notice of a free coinage amendment to the tariff bili, and the possibilities of such an amendment to work mischief in the ranks of the dam. racy is so great that a vote upon it would be antagonized with vigor by the men in charge of the bill, who, under any other conditions, would be glad to have the op-portunity to meet this issue.

The Chinese Treaty. There are other important matters pending in the senate. Among these is the Chinese treaty, which Mr. Morgan is anxious to get out of the way. But little headway was made Saturday, the discussion being largely upon the question of how the treaty should be considered. This contest will probably be renewed tomorrow as soon as Mr. Hill finishes his speech, and whether the senate decides to discuss the treaty in open session or in accordance with the es-tablished precedents, there is every indication of a debate ranging over three or four days at least. Mr. Perkins, of California, is prepared for a speech of some length, and Mr. Stewart has given notice that he will speak for two days, and, whether the doors be open or closed, Mr. Stewart, judging from past experience, will probably be able to consume the time of which he has given notice. Mr. Dolph and Mr. Mitchell and one or two other gentlemen from the far west are also in a fighting humor. Altogether, this treaty appears to have in front of it rough passage

Call Has His Friends. Mr. Call has still part of his unfinished fight on hand growing out of the Florida appointments, and he showed sufficient strength last week to go into executive session against the protests of Mr. Harris, who occupies the position of outpost among the parliamentarians on his side of the

All these things will give the republicans sufficient excuse to relieve themselves from assuming the responsibility for any delay that may occur in the delivery of the tariff speeches that are ready for the pending

Hopes to Smoke 'Em Out. A conflict is bound to occur if Mr. Harris pushes, as he said he would do early this week, his motion that the hours of the daily session be lengthened. The republicans will resent such a step at this stage of the debate, and Mr. Harris may be defeated in his motion. He will, however, as he expresses it, smoke out the democrats who favor dilatory tactics, and there may be some satisfaction in that for the gentleman in charge of the bill. It is an open secret that if Mr. Harris attempts to push his motion he will be confronted with a request on the part of the republicans that a quorum be present at all times, and especially when the journal is being read. The absence of half a dozen republicans would make it very difficult for the major-ity, as things now are, to get this quorum. The whole situation affords abundant opportunity for the skill of the parliamen-tarians, and the week can hardly pass with-out one or more bouts between Mr. Harris on the one side, and Mr. Aldrich on the other. The republicans have openly de-clared their intention of adjourning on Fri-day till next Monday, and the democrats have been notified that if they attempt to prevent it the time will be spent in doing something other than discussing the tariff. Properly interpreted, this means that a quorum will be asked for and means will be taken in advance to make it almost impossible for the democrats to obtain it.

Southern Fast Mail in Peril. Tomorrow is one of the Mondays set apart in the house for business pertaining to the District of Columbia, but as the district has no especial representative in congress to look after its' interests, it is by no means unlikely that the postoffice appropri-ation bill, which is the unfinished business, will be taken up by the house. The item under discussion is one appropriating $196,-000 for special and necessary facilities on what is known as the southern mail, from Springfield, Mass., to Atlanta and New Or-leans. This is the only line in the United States so favored, and two members of the committee from which the bill came have formally opposed the item in the report on the bill. Something of a discussion may also be expected upon the amendment proposed by Mr. Dunphy, democrat, of New York, prohibiting the postmaster general from having the postage stamps printed at the bureau of engraving and printing.

After the postoffice bill shall have been disposed of the river and harbor appropriation bill has the right of way, and Chairman Catchings expects to ask the house to enter upon its consideration at once. Caucus on State Banks. The caucus to be held Tuesday night upon the state bank tax question may have some effect upon the progress of business in the week, but it is not expected to interfere with appropriation bills, whatever its deliverance may be. Should a decision be reached to support a bill to repeal the tax it is believed that it will be made the order of business after the appropriation bills are out of the way, or at least not to their prejudice, if they are ready for action.

BOUGHT BY BENNETT. The Owner of The "Herald" Secure

the Vigilent. New York, April 8.—Vigilant, the suc-cessful cup defender in last year's inter-national yacht races, has been sold to James Gordon Bennett. The negotiations were completed a few days ago upon the receipt of a cable from Mr. Bennett in-structing his agent to accept the terms of-fered by the Iselin syndicate. The purchase price has not yet been divulged, but it is said to be in excess of $40,000. It cost the syndicate $125,000 to build and maintain the yacht during the cup race with the Valkyrie. The German emperor bid $75,000 the yacht during the cup race with the Valkyrie. The German emperor bid $75,000 for the Vigilant a few months ago, but her owners retused to seil her to a foreigner. Mr. Bennett had better luck. He is a thorough sportsman and when he made an offer for the yacht the members of the syndicate got together and decided it would be to the best interests of yachting to make terms with him. Accordingly a figure was set on the cup defender greatly below the price bid by Emperor William. The proprietor of .ne Heraid stood pat on his first bid of $30,000 for a time, but rather than lose the yacht he raised the ante to the amount named by the syndicate. Vigilant will be transferred to his representatives next week, and from what can be gathered here, it is likely she will be taken to England with Valkyrie. There is some talk of a race across the ocean between the two yachts, but Mr. Bennett's intentions have not yet been made known to the yachtmen of this city, and this is only surmised. Such a race would undoubtedly attract wide attention, and would settle beyond cavil the respective merits of the fin keel and center board in rough weather. Mr. Bennett has always been an ideal yachtman, and at the present time, when yachting promises to be rather tame for a season, he is looked to as the possible mover toward some great international or national event which will put life and new interest into the sport. Should he elect to arrange a series of races with Lord Dunraven's boat in American waters, the yachting fraternity would go wild with delight. The chances, however, seem to favor the idea that the Vigilant will be crack boats of the royal squadron.

FITZ DEALT THE BLOW.

Con Coughlan. New York, April, 8.-It is reported about New York, April, 8.—It is reported about town that the blow over the heart which caused Con Coughlan, the heavy weight puglilist, to be confined to his bed at St. Luke's hospital, was struck by Bob Fitz-simmons, the middle weight champion. This pair, it is said, donned the mitts for a trial bout one day last week Coughlan was any. bout one day last week. Coughlan was anxious to compete in one of the coming boxing shows, but the managers of the show did not take kindly to his proposition. They decided to try him out, however, with a good man, and if he made a creditable showing they might reconsider their action and put him against one of the local heavy weights. A private bout was accordingly arranged, and it is said that Fitzsimmons was Coughlan's opponent. At any rate, the weight thrower got decidedly the worst of the argument, and he is now nursing his sore spots in St. Luke's hospital. Cough-lan, although a giant in stature and a Hercules in strength, was devoid of science, and, though his aspirations aimed toward and, though his aspirations aimed toward the puglistic championship, he has proved a punching bag for every boxer whom he ever faced. It is not thought that his injuries will prove fatal.

TE DEATH ROLL.

Barnesville, Ga., April 8.—(Special.)—Yesteday morning, at 5 o'clock, Mrs. S. N. Woodward breathed her last. She had only been ill a short while and her death was a shock to the community.

She was the oldest daughter of Mrs. A. J. Bialock, and will be remembered by her numerous friends in the state as Miss Ora Bialock, who married Colonel S. N. Woodward. She possessed many loving traits and was universally loved. She was all a wife could be, a most devoted mother and a loyal Christian. She leaves her husband and two children, aged ten and eight years.

The funeral occurred this morning at the Methodist church, at 11 o'clock, Rev. H. J. Ellis, officiating. Her remains were interred in Greenwood cemetery.

A Heroic Railroad Man.

Last Tuesday evening as a train on the Jersey Central railroad rounded the curve and came to the bridge across the Lackawanna river at Minock junction, the engineer was horrified to observe a little girl in the middle of the bridge. He whistled and put on his brakes, and the girl made an effort to run off the bridge, but realizing that there was not time for that, she stopped and jumped off the oridge into the boiling river beneath. The nreman, John Mellick, saw her, and climbing on the tender, sprang into the river after her, whirling over and over half a dozen times before he struck the water. He was not seriously hurt, however, and striking out after the child, who was struggling in waves, he soon had her safely ashore. The passengers took up a collection and made up quite a handsome sum for the heroic freman.

It is indeed great to be a great man, even at seventy-nine.

Between the hours of 9 and 5 on his birthday Bismarck received 7,000 letters and 4,850 telegrams.

The meadows about his new palace were black with people, hundreds sleeping on the ground and with the pigs, horses and cattle, for want of better accommodations.

All the outlying roads were blockaded with wagons bringing presents, so that the castle yard is described as being a veritable freight depot, piled high with barrels, kegs, boxes and bundles of all shapes and sizes, for which there was no available storage. If the old man is not killed with kindness before he rounds out fourscore, heaven only knows what will be the invoice next fear.

And yet, in spite of all this imposing array of moving tableaux, the shameless gout has still no respect for greatness, while about the same measure of mother earth will cover Bismarck and the poor peasant who walked a hundred miles to honor his birthday.

lecting up and saving some time. The largest individual subscription was made by Captain S. S. Dunlap, of $1,000. Messrs, W. G. Solomon and W. B. Hill subscribed $150 each; Colonel Isaac Hardeman, $600; Mrs. Lila Willingham, Mr. Horance Adams and Mr. Willie Rogers gave $500 each. There were numerous subscriptions of $300, £500 and $100, and many smaller sums. The subscribtion off $15,000 at one meeting, when only $15,000 was needed, was very liberal. There are fresh rumors of an injunction to be served against the building of Macon's system of sanitary sewerage, but the average citizen does not place any belief in the truth of the report. The people

In the truth of the report. The people think that the time has passed for an injunction. The contract to build has been let, bonds are being signed and sold, laborers are at work and the construction of the sewers will soon be well under way. There has been in the past much discussion about an injunction, and the general idea is that if proceedings are undertaken it will be in the superior court. But this is a mistake. The petition for injunction, if one be made, will be filed in the United States court and will be brought by a foreign bondholder, one who owns bonds of the city that are due about 1910. The public will be surprised, though, if an injunction is brought at this late day.

This after on at 3 o'clock at the Academy of Music Mr. Claude Falls Wright, o's London, England, delivered a very interesting and entertaining letter on theosophy. There is a theosophical society in Macon, and has a large and intelligent membership, and Mr. Wright lectured under the suspices of this organization. Mr. Wright is a member of the Theosophical Society of London, and was for years secretary, friend and pupil of the late Madam Blavatsky. The Constitution representative had a pleasant interview today with Mr. Wright, who said:

Queer Stories About Her. "What sort of a woman was Madam Bla-vatsky? They tell queer stories about her and claimed she was a fraud. Is that

"What is the truth about the rumors of her having marvelous powers? Is it a fact that she controlled inanimate and animate objects as stated by Mr. Smith in the 'Oc-cult World?'"

t World?"'
It is a fact. I have seen many things of t nature done by her, although she self disliked very much performances of s nature. She only utilized her psychic tscience."

Now, Mr. Wright.

Now, Mr. Wright.

"On one occasion I saw her cause an article of furniture to move towards her by the power of her eye. Many times she has precipitated drawings and handwriting of the Mahatmas (or her teachers in Thibet) on paper. Jouce saw her duplicate a small brass seal left me by a Hindoo friend. She drew a similar one out of the one I gave her and caused thereby two to appear. She then rubbed them together, making them as one again. This was done by materializing its ostral form."

A VERY GAY KIRMESS. Two Hundred and Fifty Engaged in

Macon, Ga., April 8.—(Special.)—Fifteen thousand dollars was subscribed today by the congregation of Mulberry Street Methodist church for the erection of a Sunday school building in the rear of the church and the improvement of the church itself. The sum needed for the work is $15,000 and at the regular services this morning Dr. Monk, the pastor, called for subscriptions. The Sunday school scholars started off the list with $1,700, which they had been collecting up and saving some time. The largest individual subscription was made by the Production at Savannah. Savannah, Ga., April 8.—(Special.)—The kirmess was the talk of last week in this city. Professor F. M. Agostini, the director, came here about six weens about successful results.

Nearly two hundred and fifty of Savannan's graceful dancers and amateur actors were engaged in the work, the three performances being given Thursday, Friday and Saturday. The ladies of the Episcopal Orphans' home had the manage nent of the aftair, which was a success throughout.
They netted for that institution nearly a thousand dollars. Among the specialties introduced during the performances were a thousand dollars. Among the specialities introduced during the performances were the acrobatic and contortionist work of Master Percy Lynwood, of Atlanta; the greceful and elegant skirt dances by little Miss Gertrude Freeman, of Macon, and several beautiful dances and songs by little Miss Rosa Coates, of Brunswick.

Inclosed in the let-ter were such telegrams and letters as had been sent the governor in behalf of Mr. duBignon. They were from all sections of the state, from north Georgia as well as south and middle Georgia.

Superintendent Ford Resigns. Superintendent E. Ford, of the South Bound division of the Fiorida Central and Peninsular railroad has tendered his resignation, to take effect May 1st. Superir tendent Ford has been in Savannah about tendent Ford has been in Savannan about two years and before the South Bound went into the hands of the Florida Central and Peninsular railroad he was superintendent of that road. The reason for his leaving the road is not known. He will probably remain in Savannah some months after his resignation goes into effect. It has not yet been determined who will succeed him.

To Have a Choir.

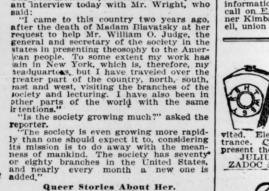

It has been some time since the First Presbyterian church has had a paid choir, but the congregation has determined to employ first class singers and have a choir that will be a credit to the church and a pleasure to the entire congregation. At the services this morning Rev. Mr. Jennings made reference to his not accepting the call to the Birmingham church by stating that after more than a week of anxiety and doubt the church was once again in rest and quiet. He preached a beautiful and appropriate sermon. Shut the Door.

The Democratic Caucus.

The democratic caucus, which is called to meet tomorrow night for the purpose of uniting the party in the house on a measure repealing the unjust and unnecessary tax on state bank notes, should have no difficulty in coming to an understanding. The recommendation in the Chicago platform is plain, simple and direct. It says the 10 per cent prohibitory tax should be repealed by the party, and this recommendation, when we take into consideration the condition of the people in that vast section of the country that is constantly drained of its currency under the present financial system, ought to be promptly carried out.

It is to be hoped that the doctrinaires from the north and east-the men who assume to know it all-will not intrude their cranky schemes and projects into the caucus. The house is the place for such things. The caucus is the place where the party will decide whether it is able to unite in repealing a tax that was imposed for the benefit of the national banks. It is not generally known that the bill providing for the imposition of the tax became a law by an accidentthrough a misunderstanding-but that is the fact

We think, therefore, that the time has come for the representatives of the people, hampered in their efforts to enlarge the basis of our currency by remonetizing silver, to relieve the citizens of the states from this repressive tax, which forbids them to utilize their own sources of wealth and credit. Let the caucus act promptly, and if the diverse elements can be brought to the point of agreeing to follow the recommendation let a measure of repeal be introduced in the house and passed at once.

There seems to be an idea in the minds of some of our legislators-especially those who find it impossible to reason clearly unless they are prompted by information fresh from the money powerthat the people of Massachusetts are interested in the local currency of the people of Georgia. But it is a pestiferous idea when it stands in the way of the constitutional right of the people of Georgia to utilize their credit. It is an idea that carries trailing behind it a litter of evils. It may as well be said that because a citizen of Massachusetts is not known in Georgia he has no business to issue his bill of credit-his promissory note-to any of his neighbors. There also seems to be an idea that if the prohibitory tax is repealed all the states will be flooded with "wildcat" money. This idea grows out of the awful ignorance of men who are otherwise intelligent in regard to the whole business of state banking. Only those states that feel the need of a local currency will find it either desirable or necessary to utilize the privilege of permitting the local banks to issue notes.

In the north and east where the great volume of federal currency is congested for ten months in the year, state bank notes would not be as beneficial as in the south. In the vast section that is drained of its money under our present unjust and inelastic system a local currency would give a new impetus to energy and enterprise, and open up fresh sources of wealth and industry. Since the north and east would reap a part of these benefits in the way of enlarged trade and commerce, it is impossible to see why there should be any objection to the repeal of the prohibitory tax among the solid, substantial and thoughtful men of these sections.

We can understand why those who are wedded to the exclusive privileges of the national banking system should be opposed to the repeal of the law that concentrates their power, but we cannot understand why it should meet with opposition from substantial business men who understand and deplore the present drastic system-a system that expands and contracts, not in response to the demands of industry and enterprise, but in response to the personal schemes of those who have organized the present raid on the prosperity of the people.

The call for a caucus on this important question is very timely, and it will be still timelier and more satisfactory should the caucus conclude to take up the recommendation of the platform.

There can be no doubt that the repeal of the prohibitory tax will afford the people a measure of relief in those states very low ebb. We, therefore, hall the caucus as a sign that something is to be done. It will be well done if it be done quickly.

Close It Up!

When the exposition directors meet this afternoon we feel satisfied that they will not adjourn before they succeed in completing the minimum fund of $200,-000 required to start their great enter-

We cannot afford to waste another day waiting for the small sum which is still lacking. On every street in the city may be found half a dozen men who could subscribe the amount needed and never feel it. The months are rolling by rapidly and it is time to get to work. The first hammer that strikes a blow on the exposition buildings will be heard throughout the continent, and whatever may be the misfortunes of other cities, Atlanta will leap forward entirely free from the environment of hard times.

This matter should be closed up today. The world is waiting to hear from our exposition, and it will never do to send forth the tidings week after week that we are still haggling over the insignificant sum needed to complete the minimum fund.

The meeting this afternoon should practically start the exposition!

Bishop Haygood on Small Farms.

Bishop Haygood, in a recent letter in The Augusta Chronicie, compliments the owner of a 1,400 acre plantation for the "horse sense" he displayed in sending for the surveyor and instructing him to divide the tract into ten 140-acre farms The bishop then goes on to say:

Are there not several thousand places in Georgia that need dividing into small farms? In the old plantation—the 1,400 acres held together the value was possibly per acre. The probability is, if it is held together, that in ten years more it will be worth $3. With the farmers on it in ten years it may be worth $20 per acre. We talk of immigration and the need of population. Georgia will not be 5,000,000 of people find homes in her broad domain. But we would be better off to shrink to 1,000,000 than to swell to 5,000. 000-filling up with people Europe don't want. One way and the best way to secure a large population to Georgia is so simple great ones will hardly care for it. Keep at home our own people. ter whole regiments of Georgians go west, when, if land owners had even "hor sense," they would, most of them, stay home. But none of those who leave can buy the 1,400 acres; most of them can he cannot manage. He is growing old and place running down. He should send acre farms, giving buyers reasonable terms. He would have money and they would have And Georgia would keep her own -the best of all people.

As it is young families "go west;" the remnant of the old "rich before the war" people are forever pinched to pay the taxe on lands they cannot manage. This is on the right line, and Bishop Haygood's letter should be widely circulated in every southern state. We have outgrown the days of big plantations. What we need now is the system of diversified farming applied to small farms. This will keep our people at home and draw a desirable class of immigrants from other states.

A Chapter of Southern Statistics. According to the census reports the south is making gratifying progress. The census figures of assessment and actual valuation for 1890 are	as follows:

Assessment.	Actual Valuation.
Virginia $ 470,642,553	$ 862.318.070
North Carolina 278,975,226	584,148,999
South Carolina 176,528,452
Georgia 415,339,384	852,409,449
Florida 195,614,398	389,489,388
Alabama 271,961,846
Mississippi 208,393,024	454,242,688
Louisiana 271,961,846	495,301,597
Texas	2,105,576,766 455,147,422
Arkansas	1.172.232.313
Rentucky	1,114,404,010

Tennessee...... 483,761,510 887,956,143 Total.....$4,939,245,026 $9,285,507,632
The assessment includes all property, and $351,063,332 of the amount reported comes under the head of untaxed property. Strike out the exemptions, and only one-half of the property in the south pays taxes.

	The value of our farm land	is is thus summarized by the report:
	Virginia	$254,490,600
	North Carolina	183,977,010
	South Carolina	99,104,600
	Georgia	152,006,230
	Florida	72,745,180
	Alabama	111,051,390
	Mississippi	127,423,157
l	Louisiana	85,381,270
	Texas	399,971,289
	Arkansas	118,574,422
	Kentucky	346,339,360
	Tonnoggoe	242 700 540

assessment system. Kentucky has the best, and gets nearest to the true value of property. She is closely followed by Texas, Tennessee, Virginia and Florida. but Georgia is near the bottom of the list. Before the war assessments generally covered from 75 to 80 per cent of the property, but now they rarely go beyond 30 or 40 per cent.

cade we lost $2,425,301,672, nearly half our total property. It took fifteen years to recover from this loss, and the south is now better off than she was in 1860. But some of the states are still behind. while others are far ahead, as these figures giving the per capita of wealth in each state for 1860, 1870 an	id 1890	will clearly show:

1860.	1870.	1890.
Virginia $497	$334	$521
North Carolina 361	243	361
South Carolina 779	295	348

Texas 605	194	942
Arkansas 504	323	403
Kentucky 576	457	631
Tonnoggoo	200	500

Virginia, Florida, Texas, Kentucky and Tennessee are better off than they were before the war, but South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana and Arkansas are not so well off. North Carolina stands in per capita wealth just where she stood in 1860.

Manufacturing is now one of the greatest factors of southern progress. In the last ten years our manufactured product where the volume of currency is at a has jumped from $457,000,000 to $917.000,000. This is $144,000,000 in excess of.

the value of our agricultural products for 1890. It would be well to cut out these statistics and study them. Those who claim that agriculture is our most important interest will find food for thought in the official statement that in 1890 southern farms yielded a total of $773,000,000. while southern marufactures, not includ ing mining, yielded $917,000,000.

If we take care of our mills they will take care of every other interest. Manufacturing makes new and better markets for our farmers.

The duties of these crown lawyers will consist in the gratuitous defense of the poor, espe cially of the peasantry, in criminal and civil actions. Alexander is of the opinion that wherever the state appoints a public prosecutor, it also ought to provide a public defender, free of cost, for the accused per sons, if they happen to be poor or in strat-ened circumstances, and that if the state pays the lawyers who accuse, it ought also to remunerate the counsel who defend. In many countries the presiding judge often the deferme of pauper prisoners to present in court. But this applies lawyers present in court. But only to criminal cases, and inasmuch a these ex-officio counsel receive no pay for the work thus undertaken, in the majority of the cases the interests of the poor pris-oner have to suffer. Emperor Alexander's plan of appointing defending counsel at a fixed rate of remuneration by the state obviates this drawback.

Interest in the short story does not lessen, if the contents of the great magazine are an indication. In the four numbers of Harrers Magazine already published this year there have appeared twenty-six short stories, besides a farce by W. D. Howells while six complete tales are announced for number, with the first half of a not include the short stories with which the "Editor's Drawer" in Harper's is introduced, although they might with priety be added to the list, since they been contributed by such writers as Thoma Nelson Page, F. Hopkinson Smith, and Ruth McEnery Stuart. Ninety short stories printed during a year by a single monthly magazine goes a long way towards showing that the branch of literature in which American writers have excelled is not yet a lost or an outgrown art.

GEORGIA AND THE VETO.

West Georgia News: It is hard to se how any sane, sincere democrat can justify the veto-can see any friendship for silver in word or syllable; how he can hope for any friendly silver legislation during Mr. Cleveland's administration. Greenesboro Herald-Journal: Cleveland has the effrontery, after spitting in the face of democratic sentiment, to ask congress for power to issue more gold bonds. And issue leads to another, and every new deal rivets the chains more firmly around

Blue Ridge Post: President Cleveland has vetoed the Bland bill and is being censured by the democrats all over the union for this undemocratic act. He is not in harnony with his party.

Monroe Advertiser: This veto at this particular time will prove a calamity to the democratic party. And doubtless it will so appear to the masses of this re public who are looking to financial legisla tion by congress for relief.

Covington Star: As a party measure it is the most hurtful of all the many arbitrary things Mr. Cleveland has done. It will be used by the enemies of democracy as a wedge to divide the party, and especially the solid south. From a business stand-point it settles the "money" quality of silver, and buries it under the goldbug pressure, at least during the present administra-tion, as the president would certainly veto any further legislation on the silver question that might be enacted by the present Milledgeville Chronicle: We regret that President Cleveland could not see that it was in the line of his duty to sign the siegniorage bill. Relying on his assertion that he was "a friend to silver," and the added strong appeal of a majority of his party, we entertained the hope that he would sign the bill. It was passed by a democratic congress and a democratic senate and its veto is a sad blow to the unity of the party.

STRANGE GEORGIA STORIES.

An alligator story which beats the record comes from Early county. Some negroes were at work in a turpentine farm nea Damasous, clearing the trash and straw away from the boxes preparatory to burn-ing off the woods, when they came across an alligator who had crawled out during the last warm spell to put on his new spring suit, but who was knocked back into a state of dormancy by the recent cold nap. The old fellow was lying there stiff hard, motionless and crusty, and the ne-groes decided that they would make an end of him by burning him up; so they dippe turpentine out of the boxes and covere him over entirely with that inflammable substance, and then heaped pine straw on top of him and then poured more turpenon that. When the fire began to blaze his alligatorship suddenly awoke from dreams of icebergs and hoar frosts into what he supposed was the land of perer nial summer, where the bad 'gators Nevertheless instinct was stronger than in-tellect, and Old Crusty decided that, even though he were in hell, he would split for a pond. ### ABOUT THE GOVERNORSHIP.

The LaGrange Graphic, commenting on the Evans-Atkinson debates, says: "Our honest judgment is that General Evans has had the best of the argument in the debate, the crowds have been with the debate, the crowds have him, and they will continue with him to the end of the race. He has shown great ability as a campaigner, has outclassed his opponent, and his people will crown him with the honor of their approval.

The Griffin Call has this paragraph: "Some of Atkinson's warmest friends and supporters in this place estimate that his strength in the state will be fifty counties. One of his most enthusiastic friends was heard to say yesterday that he would bet $250 to $1,000 (which is one to four) that Atkinson would carry fifty counties. illustrates what faith they have in nomination."

"The Divorce Suit" to Be Presented at the Grand Tonight.

IMMENSE SALE OF SEATS AND BOXES

The Evening's Programme-John Thompson Will Start the Fun by a Curtain Raiser That Will Make a Hit.

The Grand theater will echo with laughter

"The Divorce Suit," the Press Club farce, the most laughable entertainment ever seen here, will be presented in that theater to an immense audience.

As has been repeatedly stated in the pa-

The advance sale of seats has exceeded the brightest expectations of the promoters of the farce, and they have every reason to believe that the sale will continue today and tonight with the same rapidity. Altogether the attendance will be something haustively reviewed by the papers. Nothing can give a fairer idea of it that the print-ed descriptions save the sight of it. That it is bright, sparkling, witty, humorous and farcical is assured by those who have had the preparation of it in hand. There is not dull moment in it.

The fun begins promptly at 8 o'clock. After an orchestral prelude the curtain will rise and handsome John Thompson, dressed in the most fetching female costume that money and influence could produce, will step out and entertain the audience by a little three-minute skit. The specialty is Mr. Thomson's own, and it will put the auuence in the best of humor to start with. It is one of the finest pieces of farce seen outside of New York. Those who have seen Mr. Thompson in rehearsal pronounce seen Mr. Thompson in rehearsal pronounce it simply immense.

After Mr. Thompson's short act the curtain will lift upon the courtroom scene. The fun begins instantly. There is no weary prologue. Everything that is thresome or superfluous has been weeded out, and what was left is guaranteed to produce laughter from the gloomiest individual.

The public is requested to be on hand bromptly at 8 o'clock. The curtain will go up at that time and those who fall to see the curtain raiser will miss one of the great features of the entertainment.

Kansas City the Enterpot for Foreign Trade Through Southern Ports.

Kansas City, Mo., April 6.—(Special.)—The twin cities of Kansas, Mo., and Kansas City. Kan., the first one with 135,000, and the second with 45,000 people, or 180,000 together, lying side by side, with only an imaginary yet immovable state line between them integrible. them, intangible as a film of vapor, yet as solid as an eternal partition of iron; differ-ent cities in different states, under different laws, officers and government, yet practically one and the same city, of the same origin, people and destiny; cosmopolitan Chang and Eng-municipal Siamese twins, tied in indissoluble brotherhood, are an interesting and picturesque metropolitan phexperience. The Kansas place is prohibition and the other allows toddles, while the Missouri place wars on dice and cards, which the other tolerates. The streets run-ning along the dividing state line that separates the twins have legal saloons on one sides, forbidden on the other, and vice versa with gambling rooms, and the two pas-times run in convenient legal proximity and facile.

But the brace of cities is a rare one—a young giant of the great west, with a future of imperial power. I was here in the winter of 1869, and saw a ragged, ungainly town of about 15,000 folks, with not a single city feature—unpaved, muddy sidewalks, stragging frontier-like and rough, and I town of about 15,000 folks, with not a single city feature—unpayed, muddy sidewalks, straggling frontier-like, and rough, and I have come back to find in twenty-five years one of the great cities of the continent, with possibilities that cannot be estimated. It is a big burg with a big destiny. Kansas City is the main mart of eleven great states and territories of the west and south, embracing some of the richest of the union. It is the first wheat market of the aution and the distributing point of Kansas, the leading wheat raising commonwealth of the United States. It is the center of twenty-air radiating railroad lines, that carry its marvelously growing trade in that many directions. It is the second meat packing and provision, commercial and manufacturing market in the world and will soon become the first, at its present rate of growth. It is the fourth grain market of the union, and forging ahead with remarkable rapidity to the lead in that gigantic branch of trade. Kansas City handled last year 50,000,000 bushels of grain and $50,000,000 worth of meat products, and her trade territory covered 30 per cent of the territory of this trade and these lands grew in value 25 per cent in the year.

Her close proximity to southern seaports, both guif and south Atlantic, especially by that powerful and well-managed railway, the Kansas City, Memphis and Birmingham railroad, with her vast meat and bread stuffs trade, the shortest line to the ocean and gulf, gives her a commercial power and importance that cannot be measured, not only in domestic, but in the vast possibilities of foreign commerce through the south, now developing through southern ports to enormous proportions. A swelling current of trade is pouring over this road from many western states through Savannah, Ga., by the Ocean Steamship Company from that place to New York, Boston, Philadelphia and Baltimore.

The Atlanta Cotton States and International exposition, to be held in September, 1895, for four months, for which $200,000 has been raised, to be increased to $2,000,000, is meant among other great objects to secure for the south and west the vast trade of the seventeen Central and South American republics, Mexico and the West Indies, of which the United States only gets now about one-fifth, and which is ours by geographical demands.

It is the plain duty sind interest of the west to join the south in this plan for their common good. Southern direct trade lines are the needed agencies of this work, and with western and southern stuffs to export and the return imports to support the lines, the thing is easy.

The commercial bodies here in Kansas City and the business men of every class are deeply interested in our exposition and southern direct trade, and see in them, with their practical sagacity, the golden chance to strengthen their trade, and are taking right hold of these matters. They recognize that it is a big movement of surpassing importance. The heads and directors of every trade body here are looking into the matter and organizing a full plan of effective and zealous co-operation, of which I shall keep you advised.

An Amateur Game.

Saturday morning there was gathered a large crowd at Peters park to witness the much-talked-of game of baseball between the Peachtree Blues and the Tigers. These the Peachtree Blues and the Tigers. By far the best playing of the day was done by Bob Ridley. He batted heavily and succeeded in knocking a home run and one three-base hit, besides other singles.

The opposing pitchers were Meador and Muse. The Tigers struck out four times and the Blues twice. Burden, of the Blues, and Tupper, V., of the Tigers, played well. After the game the Tigers challenged the Blues for a game next Saturday week. The Blues accepted and will doubtless add another victory to their already long list.

"The respectable men who are out of employment and out of money always cut a considerable figure in big cities, but I doubt whether the number ever reached the total mean the people of some pretensions above what we term the working classes. I mean men who have lived liberal lives, drawn big or at least comfortable salaries, and who have never known before what it is to be without either money or employment. Why, I would be willing to wager that in this very well-dressed and highly respectable-looking crowd here tonight," casting a comprehensive glance over the typical Fifth avenue gathering, "there are a dozen men who haven't a dollar in their pockets, be-yond some merely temporary small loan from a friend, and have no means of sup-from a friend, and have no means of support whatever.

"Their misfortune is neither betrayed in their clothes nor in their manners. To all appearances they are well-to-do gentlemen, with no business (**es of consequence. As a matter of fact they are paupers, living on some particular friend's bounty, or on small assessments upon several people who have known them in their more prosperous days. They are living on respectable reputations, and expect to make things good to those who assist them, and, perhaps, the latter believe they will do so. But that is neither here nor there. Some undoubtedly will and some won't.

believe they will do so. But that is neither here nor there. Some undoubtedly will and some won't.

"This class of men are more to be pitied, in one sense, than workmen with good trades who are out of work. They have been educated as gentlemen, and have gentlemanly Instincts and habits and associations. Some of them have families of high character, and similar tastes. They can't go out with a shovel and work on the street. There is no avenile of skilled labor opened to them. Their wives are ladies and can't go out as scrub women or take in washing or sewing, or to do anything toward supporting the family. What a workingman's family can worry along on for a month, won't last such a family a week without the greatest—to them—privation. They can't go to the authorities or beg on the streets or ask charity of strangers.

"Many of this class are from other cities, who have come to the metropolis and made a respectable living in the various avenues of trade, as clerks or accountants or speculators or professionals of some sort. The hard times have downed them temporarily, and they are vainly seeking an opening to re-establish themselves. I am not at this moment contributing to the support of such a man—one who would no sooner ask strangers to help him than he would do a dishonest act. He would commit suicide before he would let his extremity be known. Well, sir, that man was actually hungry when I happened to meet him, and he hadn't enough money left over for the last article of clothing sent over to the pawnbroker to buy him a 25 cent dinner. He is a good, square man, to, but out of a job."

Gainesville, Ga., April 8.—(Special.)—The democratic executive committee of Hali county has met and oruered a primary to be held on May 19th for the purpose of an expression as to the county's choice for governor. The contest as between Atkinson and Evans will be hot and nothing but a vote at the ballot box will decide it. Each candidate has his ardent admirers and supporters. Shades of opinions are various and each one throughout the county is wedded to his own views.

W. G. Raoul,

JIM REISINGER'S MISSING LEG.

He Lost It Years Ago, and It Has Just From The New York Sun.

"Jim Reisinger found his leg," said a resident of Roulette, Pa., who recently re-turned from the Butler county oil regions. "Jim lost his leg twelve years ago this spring. He was taking a can of nitro-glycerine to Centerville to shoot an oil well. He had it suspended from the reach of his wagon, where he thought it would be safe from any jar and consequent danger of ex-plosion. Jim would have been right in his calculation, no doubt, if it hadn't been for a bear that rose suddenly from a wallow hole at the side of the road, just as the team was passing. The unexpected appearance of the bear frightened the horses and they ran away. They didn't run far, though. wagon struck a deep rut in the road. The suspended can of nitro-glycerine was knocked with such force against a stone as suspended can of nitro-glycerine was the wagon jolted down that it was exploded. When Jim came to he was hanging to the top of a rail fence fifty feet away from where the nitro-glycerine had exploded, if he could judge from the hole half as big as a cellar that yawned in the road. There wasn't a fragment of anything in sight to indicate that a few seconds before there had been a team of horses and a spring wagon where the hole was. Then Jim discovered that he only had one leg, his right one having been blown away from just above the knee. Fortunately for Jim some drillers had heard the explosion, and hurried to the spot to see how little there was left of Jim and his outfit. They were amazed to find so much of Jim left, and they quickly carried him to the nearest house and got a doctor. Jim was around all right in a few weeks. No evidence of the previous existence of the team, wagon or Jim's lost leg had been discovered.

"One day last week George Dickson chopped down a big oak tree that stood in a field 300 yards from the spot where Jim Reisinger's blow-up had occurred. In a crotch of that tree, fifty feet from the ground, he found some funny looking bones lodged. He took them to Centerville to a doctor.

"Why!" said he, 'those are the lower

"'Why!' said he, 'those are the lower bones of the human leg! A complete set of bones of the human leg! A complete set of them, too!'

"'Jim Reisinger's leg, sure!' said Dickson.
"There couldn't be any doubt about it. No one else had ever lost a leg in that locality and never found it, and so it was Jim's long-lost leg, and no mistake. They boxed the bones up and sent them to Jim at Prospect, where he lives now, and when I left Butler county he had just written back and said that while the leg wouldn't be of much use, he was glad to see it, and was much obliged."

Double or Binary Stars. All stars appear single to the naked eye, but the use of the telescope has proven that many consist of two or more distinct orbs. When the astronomer, Herschel, first began to make a special observation of double stars only four were known. He indouble stars only four were known. He increased the number to 500, and now about 7,000 are catalogued by astronomers. Some have argued that these stars only appear to be double because they are on the same line of vision, but Herschel, after many years of investigation, was convinced that in hundreds of cases they actually revolve around each other, thus proving beyond a doubt that there is an actual relationship between such pairs of orbs.

When we consider the fact that the whole eastern range of mountains, those natural barriers that were first encountered by the European explorers in America, are regu-larly stratified with several seams of coal, both anthracite and bituminous, we cannot help expressing surprise when the historian informs us that the first American coal mine was discovered in what is now the state of Illinois. In Hennepin's account of his explorations in the west in the years 1673-74, he tells of an outcrop of coal on the Illnois river, not far from Ottawa, "the shelly fragments of which burned with a bright light and gave forth much heat." Hernedon says that this is the first historical mention of coal being found in what is now the United States. both anthracité and bituminous, we cannot

TWENTY-FIVE GRAINS

Young Woman.

And Preferred to Die Rather Than Live Without Him-What Her Sister Says About It.

Twenty-five grains of morphine taken with suicidal intent ended all that was moral of Mrs. Mattle Porter yesterday at half past 1 o'clock.

Mrs. Porter lived with her sister in a little brick cottage at No. 12 Trinity avenue, and for some time past has been in a despondent condition. No cause is assigned for the act except continued grief over the separation from her husband.

Early yesterday morning the woman arose and took a long walk alone. She returned about 8 o'clock and went at once to her room. Calling the cook, she said that she did not wish any breakfast, and putting twenty-five cents in the negro's hand told her to go at once to the drug store and get some morphine. The cook returned without it, and Mrs. Porter wrote an order upon another store for the drug. It came in a small red box. Mrs. Porter snatched it eagerly, Then she ordered the woman out of the room, and finging herself upon the bed quickly swallowed the deadly stuff. "I happened in about that time," said her sister, Lula Farris before the coroner's jury yesterday, "and saw Mattle lying there on the bed. Her face was hid and she was crying. I noticed the box with the morphine label on it, and asked her if she had taken the drug. She said, 'Yes, I have taken it, and, thank heaven, J will be dead in an

the drug. She said, 'Yes, I have taken it, and, thank heaven, I will be dead in an hour.' I asked her why she wanted to die. She said that she didn't have anything to live for and that she didn't want to stay in this world any longer. Then I ran as quickly as I could for a doctor."

The woman also stated that she and her sister lived there alone and had been occupying the house about three months.

"Mattle," she said, "was married about three years ago, and shortly afterwards separated from her husband. Since the sep aration she has always been despondent and apparently took no interest in things."
Her husband traveled for some northern house and, it is said, made money. Saturday night, according to the testimony of the cook, Mrs. Porter said that she would be satisfied to die if she could just see her husband once more, but that couldn't be, and she was going to die anyhow.

The verdict of the coroner's jury was that she came to her death from an overdose of morphine taken with suicidal intent.

Disappearing Receivership.

From The Birmingham Age-Herald. The southern people will never realize how serious to them have been the misfortunes of the great railroad systems that run through this section of the country. Of all the great agencies of development in these times of titantic forces, the railroads are the first and chiefest. It matters roads are the first and chiefest. It matters not whether their misfortunes came from watered stock, speculations, squeezing, deals or other cause whatsoever, the effects of disintegration and receiverships on the country and the people have been the same. A receivership and a policy of development are an inconceivable copartnership.

The people are more dependent on the railroads than they appreciate. These vast aggregations of capital can and do readily undertake and accomplish results that no amount of individual enterprise can effect, and all enlightened railroad management is progressive, and proceeds on the theory that the creation of new traffic is a part of its business.

Hence it is that the reorganization of our great railroad systems, their steady passage from the control of courts into the hands of private owners, is of vast moment to all the people of the south. It is the forerunner of another era of development. It is the getting ready for a grand stride forward. It means more farmers to till our vacant lands, lumber trade extension, more iron marketed and coal dug, more enterprises of every description and a steady growth. There is hardly a doubt that all these receiverships will be ended before the year is over, and that the renewed vigor of private railroad ownership and control will be the great central fact that will mark 1894 as the beginning of a new and distinct epoch in southern progress.

Mr. Kempton then took my form book and asked the bailiff to go with him to his office and he would write up the papers and give J. C. Baldwin as security on bond. Kempton came back in a few minutes with the counter affidavit, accompanied by the bailiff, who had in his possession a box of cigars. Kempton stated that he had decided not to make the bond, but had instructed the bailiff to levy and had given him the box of cigars upon which to levy and that he considered it a sale, as he knew that I would smoke them up and have them to pay for.

Mr. Kempton himself then gave the information to The Commercial that a levy had been made upon the stock of the Baildwin Cigar Manufacturing Company, which he knew was not true, as the paper was against him and not the cigar company and he had pointed out the property upon which to levy.

The statement that blackmail was attempted to be levied or that any proposition was made him to settle with the negro in my back room or elsewhere is utterly false. under the direction of Dr. Damrosch.

After singing for two seasons in New York Mme. Werner's teachers insisted that She go to Europe for the finishing touches of her musical education. Every one's life is influenced in a greater or less de-gree by accidents, and so it was with this singer. She was to have sailed within a gree by accidents, and so it was with this singer. She was to have sailed within a few days when occurrences in herfamily made it necessary to postpone the trip. Later her marriage cut off her professional career. Even after coming to Atlanta Mrs. Werner was not allowed to give up her singing, there always being some musical performance in which she was urged to take part.

A year before Mr. Werner's death she was asked to take the position of soprano on the Second Baptist church choir, which position she retained until the congregation moved to the little hall while they were building a new church. Two years ago Mme. Werner took her long-deferred trip to Europe. For a year she studied with Henschell, in Germany, then went to London, where she perfected herself in oratorio music with William Shakspeare. In her time Mme. Werner has been associated with the great artists of the day, among them Anton Rusenstein. During her sojourn in New York she was rehearsing for some great concert, at which she was to sing the "Romanza," from Mignon. Rubenstein played the accompaniment, and after she had finished singing he enthusia-tically exclaimed: "Well, this lady will some day astonish the world! She has a voice that goes direct to the hearer's heart and a deep musical conception. I don't think I ever heard this song delivered with such true heartfelt expression." He then urged the singer to go to one of the musical centers of Europe, where she would have the best training and encouragement.

Mme. Werner speaks four languages—French, Erglish, Italian and German, which is most convenient to her in teaching. Wenever theer has come to Atlanta a fine musician, such as Constantin Stern-herg. Whenever there has come to Atlanta a fine musician, such as Constantin Sternberg. Max Puitti and others, they have singled out this musician as the one to interpret at their concerts the works of the great classical composers, always expressing gratification to find here an artist of such ability and enthusiasm.

The Engineering Magazine, London, gives the following directions for making a sound-proof music room in a house that is already built. The floor must be lifted and filled in with delicate cotton. The walls must be studded with vertical studs, either lathed or coyerea with wire netting, and the spaces between the lathing and the original plaster filled with cotton before replastering. The ceiling must be treated in like manner. If there be a fireplace it must be filled with shavings or cut paper.

it must be filled with shavings or cut paper.

And apropos of music rooms, I wonder how many there are in Atlanta? Every musician ought to have one, as we never get the benefit of voice or plano in crowded furnished room. The less furniture there be in the music room the better, so that in the end one may economize on such an apartment. The floor, whether it be plain or tiled, should be polished and as few rugs as possible used. No drapery or hanging of any kind should be in this apartment, for it has the distastrous effect of muffling the sound. But if the room be large, high, with little or no furniture except what is absolutely necessary one's voice cannot but sound clear, ringing and vibrant and always to advantage. I once saw such a room, though it was in a rich house at the north. The floor was marble and the room was perhaps thirty feet long, also very high in celling. Two or three tables, several chairs, a settee, a music rack, the grand piano, on which rested the violin, was all the furniture that occupied the place. A whisper could be heard all over the room. In singing a small voice seemed to have become wonderfully large and the echo sent back by floor, celling and wall was clear, sweet and penetrating as that of our own song birds.

and penetrating as that of our own song birds.

The concert given by the Orpheus Glee Club, assisted by Dr. J. W. Bischoff and the well-known quartet of Washington city—Mrs. Shir-Cliff. Miss Ruth Thompson, Mr. Douglass Miller and Mr. J. Henry Kaiser was one of the most thoroughly interesting ever heard in the city. This is the second annual concert given by the Glee Club, and the very large audience that greeted the participants showed in what high degree the musicians are held.

For an amateur organization, the Orpheus Glee Club is far above the average. It represented a dozen or more young men fond of that sweetest of godesses, Music, and with a competent leader, willing to discourse harmonious airs for the pure love of music in itself. The voices blend well and one can occasionally hear one voice above the rest, which is particularly fine. Especially is this so in the second tenors and basses. The young gentlemen sang without notes, and they have already quite a repetoire of songs. Probably the best piece was "The Kerry Dance," but in all the selections they showed good musical taste in the director. If there be a choice of encore pleces, then it must fall to the first one, sung immediately after "The Vintage Song."

Dr. Bischoff played two numbers of his own creation—"The Guitar" and gavotte, in G major. Of course, as a musician Dr. Bischoff is above ordinary criticism. It is a well-known fact that when a person loses one sense, it is, so to speak, cintered in another. This is undoubtedly true in the rase of this musician, for a more exquisite, delicate or more decided touch on the plano was never heard. It is hard to believe that this man has never seard to believe that this man has never seard to be helve that this man has never beard to be leve that this man has never beard to be leve that this man has never beard to his listeners. Dr. Rischoff's accompanimens are gems in themselves. They are played purely ad libitum and he himself says he never plays an accompaniment the same way twice.

Miss Nellie Shi

trillis, turns and stoccato effects it is almost thrilling in its brilliancy. The audience seemed taken by storm and Mrs. Shir-Cliff responded with "Way Down Upon the Swanee River."

Miss Ruth Thompson sang that beautiful aria of Donizett s, "O Mio Fernando." Her voice is quite as pleasing as Mrs. Shir-Cliff's and is a very wide-ranged one. Her low notes are beautifully soft and melodious. For an encore she sang "Sweet Genivieve."

"Salve Di Mora" was sung by Mr. Douglass Miller. Mr. Miler is called a tenor singer, but his voice is nothing more or less than a high baritone. He sings with good enunciation and effect, as do the other three of the quartet.

Mr. J. Henry Kaiser sang "The Two Grenadiers," by Schumann. His voice is a very true and rich one. He gave an encore which was very well received. His best work was in the quartet from "Rigoletto." in which the voice formed a splendid background for the rest.

A musical exchange says the best way

A musical exchange says the best way to regulate the voice is with the piano, trying to harmonize it with the lower notes. Success may not come at first, but perseverance will accomplish much. It is not necessary to have musical talent or knowledge. Exercise of this sort can scarcely fail to produce desirable results, especially when accompanied by the proper pitch in speaking. One will help the other, and the two combined will prove the best practical vocal education that can be devised.

BUFFALO LITHIA

For Gout, Rheumatic Gout, Rheumatism, Stone in the Bladder, Bright's Disease.

Dr. William B. Towles,

Professor of Anatomy and Materia Medica in the Medical Department of the University of Virginia:

"Buffalo Lithia Spring belongs to the Alkaline, or perhaps to the Alkaline-Saline Class, for it has proved far more efficacious in many diseased conditions than any of the simple Alkaline waters.

"I feel no hesitancy whatever in saying that in Gout, Rheumatic Gout, Rheumatism, Stone in the Bladder, and in all Diseases of Uric Acid Diathesis, I know of no remedy at all comparable to it.

"Its effects are marked in causing a disappearance of albumen from the urine, In a single case of Bright's Disease of the Kidneys, I witnessed decided beneficial results from its use, and from its action in this case I should have great confidence in it as a remedy In certain stages of this disease.

Queen and Crescent Men Chafing Under To Hold Their Next Annual Conventhe Announced Reduction

MOUNTAINEERS LEAD THE REVOLT

There Is Some Gossip of a General Strike on the System-A Representative Meeting Called,

Chattanooga, Tenn., April 8.-(Special.)-Ever since the order was issued, March 2d, by the new lessees of the Queen and Crescent system declaring a 10 per cent reduction in the wages of all employes after May 1st, suppressed excitement has been very marked in all branches of the railroad service. Secret information has been obtained from a reliable source of a meeting of trainmen held at Somerset, Ky., last Monday night. This is the northern terminus of what is known as the Mountain division of the Cincinnati Southern road. At least 400 federated railroaders, every order being largely in evidence, were present.

Although most of those attending came from the Mountain division, a few were present from other sections of the road, which were taken unaware by the sudden call. The men were very much in earnest and with two exceptions unanimously voted resolutions condemning the cut as unjust and declaring it the sense of the meeting that all hands go out on May 1st, if the order is not recalled. The conclave held a star chamber session almost all night and the action has been guarded with sealed lips. Trouble will undoubtedly follow if the demands are not respected.

It was decided to call a meeting of employes from the entire Queen and Crescent system to assemble in Chattanooga or Birmingham the latter part of April. To this end all railway orders were directed to choose delegates. The understanding prevails among railroad men that the Mountain division will set the pace for the entire system. If the Mountain division goes out, all other districts will follow suit. This is largely due to the fact that here is the roughest section of the line and the reduction falls with especial force upon this division. Here is the mining district of Kentucky and the road could not get men from more civilized parts of the country to run through this turbulent belt, if the mountaineers should go on a strike. The road here runs through the great coal mining district of Kentucky.

At a recent meeting of the pondholders of the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia hallroad, held in New York, the following resolutions were adopted: "Resolved, That the following gentlemen, Messrs. Greenough, Swann, Erwin, Taylor and Coppell, be appointed a committee of the bondholders, and that they be directed fo ascertain and report the nature of any proposal for the purchase of the Cincinnati extension bonds.

"Resolved, That all the bondholders be requested to deposit their bonds with the Cen-tral Trust Company to the order of said or mmittee pursuant to an agreement which shall provide for ascertaining the wishes of tondholders by a vote in person or by proxy and providing that the action of a majority of the bonds so deposited shall be binding upon all. "Resolved, That the committee shall call meetings of the bondholders at any time to consider proposals which they may receive for the purchase of the bonds deposited and. meanwhile, they are authorized to negotiate for a sale of said bonds, but such negotiation to be subject to ratification by a majority of bonds deposited as provided in the agreement above referred to." These resolutions have considerable bearing upon the recent step on the part of General Sam Thomas and others to have the East Tennessee sold in June. The ex-act time has not been fixed yet for the sale of the road, but it is known that the sale will be some time about the middle of June.

CLEVELAND'S MINSTRELS Will Open Tomorrow Matinee and

Night at the Grand.

One of the best minstrel organizations now on the road is the Cleveland minstrels, which will play an engagement of two performances Tuesday at the Grand. Manager Cleveland believes in giving the public novelties and this season he brings a show brimful of new and catchy ideas. His Columbian first part is said to be the grandest thing of the kind yet seen on the stage. The costumes will all be reminiscent of 1492 and the backing will be a gorgeous panorama of the world's fair, showing all the principal points of interest. The best ballad singers and the cleverest dancers in the profession have been engaged, while the vaudeville and specialty people have been specially brought from Europe by Mr. Cleveland.

Cleveland.

The advance sale of seats, which began Saturday, shows that our theatergoers are ready and anxious to appreciate a good minstrel performance.

The usual street parade will take place Tuesday and the matinee at 2:30 will open the engagement, which will also close with the night's performance.

Nat Goodwin.

Mr. Nat C. Goodwin, the talented and genial comedian, will signalize his engage-ment in this city by the production of a genial comedian, will signalize his engagement in this city by the production of a new comedy, written for him by Henry Gdy Carleton, and entitled "A Gilded Fool." The play has already been seen in all the large cities, and its success has been so great that the comedian has made it the prominent feature of his present tour.

"A Gilded Fool" was presented in New York at the big Fifth Avenue theater for a run of four weeks. It caught the popular fancy at once, and the crowds that thronged the theater were so large that the orchestra was banished from its usual abiding place to make room for more chairs. Then the run was extended four weeks, and at the end of that time the play was withdraw in the height of its popularity, because it was impossible to secure age time for it in the house.

The entire company is altted with good parts, and all do thorough justice to them. "A Gilded Fool" will no doubt receive a warm welcome here. It will be repeated at matinee and Saturday night a double bill, "Gringoire" and "The Nominee," will be presented.

"The Midnight Alarm."

"The Midnight Alarm." "The Midnight Alarm."
"The Midnight Alarm" will begin a three days' engagement at the Edgewood avenue theater tonight. The company is an exceptionally strong one and has just closed an engagement of three weeks in New Orleans.

an engagement of three weeks in New Orleans. Here is what was said of the company by The Times-Democrat:

"A melodrama, which, besides being strong in itself, is accompanied by a vivifying degree of striking realism, and also presents commendable examples of scenic art, must necessarily be popular. Consequently there were no empty seats last night. "The Midnight Alarm" is a play which realizes this description. Somewhat unconventional in theme and unique in plot, it possesses considerable rugged strength. The scenes, laid in and around the metropolis, with the attendant dramatic situations, anord 'realism' galore, and the stage settings are excellent. The company is strong and very gracefully responded to the curtain calls of a demonstrative audience."

During the engagement at the Edgewood popular prices will be charged. Special Wednesday matinee.

Rev. A. B. Vaughn, pastor of the Baptist church at Canton, Ga., and one of the trustees of Mercer university at Macon, who is well known in Atlanta and all over the south, said: "On Monday, March 28th, Dr. J. Harvey Moore performed an operation for strabismus—cross-eye—on one of my eyes, which was absolutely painless. I did not believe the operation could be performed without pain, as I had undergone an operation for the same affection at the hands of a most skillful oculist and suffered the intensest pain. Actual experience has shown me that Dr. Moore's operation is painless, as I suffered no pain during the operation nor since, which to me is wonderful."

Dr. Moore uses all the latest instruments and most improved methods in the treatment of all diseases of the advertisements of late. Are you one of 'em-the victims? Funny how some people are so easily deceived. Funny how some people buy from an advertisement that has untruthfulness over the whole of it. We appeal to the intelligent public. A business that has grown and grown until it has become the largest in Atlanta, must have a basis of honest methods. Such is the story of our store. We are ever alert in the public's interest. Almost every thought-every turn of the mighty mill wheels is a pulse beat that sends a novelty in Clothes, Hats or Furnishings-an honest value-straight from the foremost markets of the world-here-to us, Hundreds of Spring Clothes, Hats.
